SMOTHERS BROTHERS LAST STAND

Galloping into Las Vegas from the desert, Tom and Dick Smothers capture the stage for 90 minutes in a hilarious and nostalgic final performance. They're returning from their recent retirement to tape this one-time, Home Box Office SPECIAL exclusively for HBO viewers!

After tonight, Dick rides off to tend his California winery and Tommy continues on the night-club trail as a comedy single. But right here, on stage, they do what they've always done best—letting their wry wit loose (and uncensored) before a very live audience at the Alladin Hotel. As a bonus, there's even a quick tour of their musical-comedy career with footage of their wackiest skits.

The Brothers first appeared in San Francisco's Purple Onion 18 years ago and went on to make 11 records, do the concert and college circuit, start a TV series, get fired and emerge as causes célèbres. This goodbye show—arranged and specially produced for HBO subscribers—catches all the wit and antics that have long made Tom and Dick our favorite sibling rivals.

Watch for this same kind of HBO SPECIAL excitement every month of the year. Coming up soon is Sammy Davis Jr! For the first time on television, Home Box Office brings you Sammy's entire night club act. It's all Sammy, all fun, and great entertainment for you.

Feb 13,16,21,26

Disaster flicks such as Earthquake and The Towering Inferno were total fiction. The Hindenburg is not. This up-in-the-air thriller is based on the 1937 flight of the German dirigible that ended in a fiery crash over Lakehurst, New Jersey.

Seeking to explain the tragedy, director Robert Wise has cooked up an intricate plot. Oscar winner George C. Scott is a wary Nazi security officer trying to avert the growing certainty of sabotage by combing a ship-of-fools passenger list (including Anne Bancroft, Gig Young and William Atherton) for the culprit.

But the real star of this extravaganza is the special effects crew, which took more than two years and most of the film's $15 million budget to re-create the breath-taking beauty of dirigible flight—and the holo-caustal nightmare of the Hindenburg's explosion. Rated PG (2:05)

BREAKHEART PASS

If Mount Rushmore let in movie stars, Bronson would be there. His is a mug that could melt a heroine's heart or stop a train—which, in fact, is what Bronson is up to in his 46th feature film, Breakheart Pass.

If there ever was a cliff-hanger, this is it. Bronson plays John Deakin, a mystery man who is suddenly caught up in a dangerous sequence of events involving the U.S. Cavalry, a hostile band of Piute Indians, and a booty of gold and silver that seems to bring out the evil in men. One death after another occurs aboard a train bound for a Western army post... nobody is quite what he appears to be... and the suspense never stops mounting. "Spectacular action footage" is what the New York Times called it.

One great bit to watch for—old

GABLE AND LOMBARD

It's the story of a skinny, dizzy blonde and a self-styled movie actor who failed his first screen test because his ears were too big. It's about a time when Hollywood was making pictures with real "stars" and Hedda and Louella were always writing about two of the biggest: Clark Gable and Carole Lombard.

This raucous film shows that their on screen roles were no match for their private lives. In fact, these legendary lovers even start out hating one another. Their first meeting is an accident—literally. Practical joker Lombard, who hires an ambulance to take her to a Hollywood party in bell ringing style, knocks Gable's jampy off the road. Their first conversation is unprintable. But loathing turns to love and they eventually join in a marriage that was tragically shortened by Lombard's death in a 1942 plane crash. Gable's easy affection and Lombard's earthy good humor made the two more than memorable—they were fascinating. James (Dr. Kiley) Brolin plays Gable and Jill Clayburgh excels as the wacky Lombard in this frank and glittering match-up. Rated R (2:11)

THE INTERNECINE PROJECT

James Coburn stars as a slick economics professor moonlighting as mastermind of a political spy network in a nifty thriller that's right out of the Watergate era.

Powerful Washington lawyer Keenan Wynn wangles Coburn a top level government job in return for past favors. But there's a hitch—Coburn must go straight to avoid public embarrassment.

He cleans up his act with scientific precision by programming his spy team to kill off one another. But Coburn's scheme hits a snag when persistent newspaper reporter Lee Grant noses her way into the plot. Who'll be alive when this deadly daisy chain stops? Don't miss the final minutes of this one! Rated PG (1:29)

EAGLES ATTACK AT DAWN

The Arab-Israeli conflict is the background for this powerful drama of escape and intrigue. Rick Jason (from TV's Combat) plays an Israeli commando held captive in a gruesome, maximum security prison located deep in Arab territory. When a UN inspection team flies in to investigate rumors of torture and prisoner abuse, Jason gets his chance to bolt to freedom.

Safe but loyal, Jason vows to return to the prison and free his fellow commandos. With the aid of Israeli soldiers, he plots an elaborate trap to ensnare prison warden Joseph Shiloah—but finds he may have ambushed himself. Peter Braun joins Jason in this suspenseful adventure into the realm of injustice and contemporary warfare. Rated PG (1:36)

An 18th Century civil war divides a Chinese province between a tyrannical ruler and a beleaguered band of mountain peasants. One-man battalion David Chiang is called in to beef up the rebels. What follows is lightning-fast, bone-crushing action. Kung-fu addicts might note Mr. Chiang's Lee-like screen presence. Catch that 108-man chop-and-kick finale, neh? Rated R (1:24)

SEMI-BOY WITH DRAGON

The sailor who fell from grace with the sea

She's "splendid," says New York's John Simon. She's "the embodiment of erotic femininity," says Judith Crist. She's Sarah Miles—who gives a sharp and sensual performance in this controversial love story based on a novel by Noble Prize-winner Yukio Mishima.

Widowed and lonely, Miles lives in an English seaport with her 13-year-old son, Jonathan. He's a member of a ruthless and misguided group of school boys who meet nightly to discuss their own vicious brand of philosophy—based on a loathing for adult imperfections.

When his mother begins an affair with American seaman Kris Kristofferson, the boy's untarnished first image of the manly sailor gives way to angry second thoughts. By giving up life on the sea for a woman's love, Kristofferson fails to meet the boy's jealous demands for perfection.

Stars Jonathan Kahn and Kris Kristofferson

Jonathan and the other boys react with a Lord of the Flies-vengeance that leads to a brutally astounding climax. This is a strange Gothic film "a darkly chilling tale," says Kathleen Carroll of the New York Daily News, with "breathtaking beauty and idyllic charm—lovingly photographed." Rated R (1:45)

Cloris Leachman and Ann Sothern make crime a family affair in Crazy Mama

Ann Sothern stars as matriarch of a struggling, hard-living, little family that runs into tough luck and ends up a criminal band on the lam. Her brood includes husbandless daughter Cloris Leachman, pregnant granddaughter Linda Purl and Purl's current beau Dan Mast.

Homeless after their California beauty shop goes bust, they hit on the idea of buying back their old Arkansas homestead and set off to acquire the necessary capital. They rob their way to Las Vegas—picking up a traveling sheriff, a slot-machine junky and a motorcycle honcho along the way.

Eviction and trouble stay close by, but laughs and larceny keep this fast-paced film on the go. And it's worth the trip—all the way to the bitter-sweet end. Rated PG (1:22)

Gene Wilder in Rhinoceros

Watch Zero Mostel turn into a rhinoceros right before your eyes and you're seeing a 'Tony' Award-winning actor hard at work.

He trumpets and harrumphs. His voice grows scratchier as he lurches around the set demolishing the furniture—until finally he succumbs to rhinocertis. It's a high moment in the American Film Theatre's production of Eugene Ionesco's classic play of modern alienation and dehumanization. And what a production! On stage with Zero Mostel are Karen Black and Gene Wilder. Tom O'Horgan (Jesus Christ, Superstar) is the director. And Galt MacDermot (Hair) wrote the music.

Although the original play is set in France, O'Horgan moves the scene to a midwest U.S. city. When a mysterious disease turns the citizens into nosy rhinos, the humor—and meaning—is cosmic and unforgettable. Invite a friend over for some philosophy and laughs. (1:44)

PAT COOPER

On Location

What makes life Italian style so much fun? Pat Cooper. Though he doesn't look any more Italian than Jimmy Carter, this Borscht Belt comic breaks up audiences with stories of his heritage, home life and the high prices of everything from kids to canelloni. His energetic ad-libs are unpredictable. In a flash he's a Puerto Rican dancer ... or his own 16-year-old daughter. It's his rapid-fire, easy-going, and unmistakable showmanship that give us a laugh on ourselves. Don't miss his Friday the 18th premiere on February's edition of ON LOCATION—HBO's popular showcase for today's best comedy talent.

Next month: Fang's favorite, Phyllis Diller. Her electric laugh keeps ON LOCATION right on target with more top-notch entertainment.

February Action

The ice will be cold, but the shooters will be hot when the Montreal Canadiens face the Los Angeles Kings on February 5. Three of the NHL's top five point-getters this season—Guy Lafleur and Steve Shutt of Montreal and Marcel Dionne of Los Angeles—will be firing away.

Montreal, outscoring its opposition more than 2 to 1, has also received exceptional efforts from Goalie Ken Dryden and penalty killers Jimmy Roberts and Doug Jarvis.

That the powerful Canadiens are not invincible was proved by none other than the Kings when the teams met on December 2. Montreal took a quick 2-0 lead, fell behind 3-2 and barely salvaged a tie when Shutt zapped in his 27th goal in 27 games with just 40 seconds left. For the Kings that was their 13th straight nonwinning game, but the tie apparently perked them up and they are now battling for second in the Norris Division behind the Canadiens.

No college basketball team has been more of a surprise so far this season than Notre Dame, which will take on Manhattan on February 17 at Madison Square Garden. The Irish, who lost Adrian Dantley to the pros in the hardship draft and two other fine players because of low grades, were not expected to cause much of a stir. But in their first game they startled Maryland 80-79 as Don Williams popped in a jumper with 18 seconds to go in overtime. They then handed UCLA only its fourth home loss in 12 years 66-63 as freshman Rich Branning scored four points in the closing moments. They later topped Indiana's NCAA champs 78-65.

Dozens of outstanding track and field performers will take part in two meets at the Garden: the U.S. Olympic affair on February 12 and the AAU championships on February 25.

Also getting a chance to show their stuff will be 3,000 well-groomed canines entered in the 101st Westminster Kennel Club Dog Show on the 14th.

CHILDREN'S

Two London school boys witness a robbery while stranded in a stalled elevator. From their hidden perch they spy the thief—but only his feet are visible. The plot thickens when the two recognize the shoes on a schoolmate's uncle. Well-acted scenes of schoolboy antics, an eccentric music teacher of the uniquely English variety, and an undercranked chase sequence make this British film one you, as well the youngsters, will enjoy. February 12

FILMS

It must have been terrible being a spirited young English girl in the 1800s! Like Pollyanna, Katy Carr gets into enough mischief to drive her stern aunt and widowed father crazy. Even when she is trying to be good, too many dos and don'ts make life nearly unbearable. (And besides, sometimes it's fun to break the rules.) Klutzy Katy is portrayed by bouncy British actress Claire Walker, who's not long out of gym slips herself. February 7, 18, 26, 27
